THE OLD HUBBARD PLACE, PARIS HILL, WHERE THE FIRST MEETING OF OXFORD LODGE, F. & A.M., WAS HELD NOV. 12, 1807.

CAPT. HENRY RUST MILLETT.

Henry Rust Millett died at his home at Woodfords Station, Portland, Sunday night. He had been in poor health for several months. In fact, for several years past he had been suffering from disease contracted in the service of his country during the War of the Rebellion. He was one of the real heroes of that contest. His parents were Major Henry W. and Harriot (Rust) Millett. His father was a prominent man in the affairs of town and county and at one time was sheriff, and rose to the rank of Major in the militia. He was a Whig in politics and later a Republican. He served several years as Postmaster in Norway.

The son, on account of his father's military title, was always called "Little Major Millett." He was born in Norway, Nov. 16, 1835. He early joined the Norway military company of which George L. Beal was Captain, and on the news of the fall of Fort Sumpter in Charleston Harbor, April 14, 1861, he enlisted for three months with others of the organization and went to the front as the second sergeant of his company G, First Regt. Maine Infy. Vols. After its term of service expired, the members of the company came home and immediately reinlisted as Co. G, 10th Me. Infy., of which he soon became second lieutenant.

Its service in the 10th and 29th Me. Regts. made it one of the famous companies from the old Pine Tree State and no better soldiers ever went into battle than the men from Maine in the Civil War.

On account of the sickness of the Captain and First Lieutenant of his company, Lieutenant Millett led it in the two first principal battles in which it was engaged although the 10th Maine Regt. in command of Col. George L. Beal of Norway covered the masterly retreat of Gen. N. P. Bank's little army down the valley of the Shenandoah in the early part of 1862, pursued by the overpowering forces of the Confederate Gen. Stonewall Jackson.

The two battles mentioned were at Cedar Mountain, Va., and at Antietam, Md. Our "Little Major" was game from start to finish in both engagements. He fought his company with great daring and skil, but came out of them without a scratch—a hero ever after especially to his townsmen.

The loss suffered in the engagaments by the 10th Maine was very great. It was one of the very few Union Regts. which lost more men by the bullets of the enemy than from disease. Lieut. Millett reinlisted in the 29th Me., being promoted to First Lieutenant of the Norway Company. He participated in the battles of Sabine Cross Roads and Pleasant Hill, La., and Winchester and Cedar Creek, Va., where General Sheridan riding from Winchester, "20 miles away" turned defeat into a glorious victory. He had been promoted to Captain E. He was discharged from the army in March 1866.

Since his army service he was for several years a clerk in U. S. Railway Postal service.

Of recent years Mr. Millett had made his winter home in Dorchester, Mass, coming to Portland in the summer, spending the time at his cottage at Long Island. He was always present at the reunions of the 1st, 10th and 29th, which the held at Long Island, and was dearly beloved by all his longtime comrades in the service, as well as by scores of friends among the summer colony at Long, in Portland, and at his former home in Norway.

He married in Dec., 1868, Myra Quinby of Norway who survives him, and they have one son, Harry Quinby Millett, now married and residing in Massachusetts.

Captain Millett's remains were brought here Wednesday forenoon and funeral services were held at Mrs. Lucelia Merriam's, Rev. C. E. Angell officiating. Interment was in Pine Grove cemetery. The bearers were his nephews:—Harry M. Jackson, A. Foster Jackson, Rust Jackson and Solomon I. Jackson. Several members of Harry Rust Post, G. A. R., attended. The flowers were beautiful.

Harry Rust W. R. C., 45, Inspected.

The annual inspection of the W. R. C., 45, was held on Thursday evening, Nov. 5th, in connection with the regular meeting which was called to order at 7.30 p. m., with the president, Addie A. Lovejoy, in chair.

The Department Inspector, Mary S. T. Burns of Skowhegan, was escorted to the president's station by Conductor Evelyn O. Young. The escorts bearing the National Colors were Hattie E. Fuller, Jennie Spring, Alice Nash and J. Alta Sheen.

At the conclusion of the evening's work the closing address by the inspector was given in words showing her appreciation of the good work exemplified by Corps 45.

At the close of the evening session a delicious lunch of ice cream, saltines and assorted cake was served by the executive committee, Hattie E. Fuller, chairman.

The Hamlin Residence.

The new home of W. K. Hamlin, built on the site of the old Houghton tavern, which was, since 1820, till quite recently a famous public house, is now occupied by the family of Mr. Hamlin. The completeness of the plan of reconstruction and the thoroughness of execution of every detail of mechanical work from the foundation to ridgepole of the entire block, challenge any adequate description.

The best of material and the best of workmen in every department of the builders' art have been employed, and under the vigilant direction of the owner, no inferior character of construction work was tolerated.

The heavy carpenter work in rebuilding the house and stable, and construction of the cement foundation walls was performed by Charles and William Jackson, who also executed a large part of the interior finish. The larger part of the finer quality of wood finishing of the interior was subject to the expert workmanship of William Glines of North Bridgton. The standing finish, doors and wainscoting of the living rooms on the first floor is of cypress, and on second floor, of hard pine.

The floors of first floor and halls are of hard wood and finished with varnish, same as the inside woodwork. The beautiful natural grained doors and other woodwork, all finished in varnish and only a little paint, was by G. H. Ward.

The decoration of the walls with elegant hangings was the handiwork of Alice and Carrie Hamlin, who are also credited with designing many of the tasty fittings and conveniences of the living establishment.

The plumbing of the whole building was executed by Leon Kimball, in the employ of Longley & Butts of Norway, and the wiring for electric lights was by Jameson Phinney of Bethel. The plastering was done by J. P. Cole & Son, Paris, and Edwin Pride of Naples.

The Union church Ladies' Circle gave a harvest supper on Wednesday evening, Nov. 4, at the Grange Hall. The menu consisted of big platters of boiled vegetables with meat, baked beans, old fashioned Indian pudding, brown bread and a great variety of cakes and pies, and coffee, testifying to the unlimited ability of the women of the Circle to cater for the multitude of their friends who were guests at their tables. The assemblage numbered 175. The after supper entertainment consisted of a grand Minstrel Concert in fancy costume, by 15 finely trained gentlemen and lady singers, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Charlotte Fillebrown. The leader of the vocal performances was George F. Hill, who displayed a fine quality of talent as a vocalist and comedian. Albert Hamlin was the other lively end-man who responded readily to the comical cues furnished by the humorous stories and actions of the leader, while Johnnie Muller volunteered no end of fantastic monkey shines. The songs were of a high order of merit as to selection and performance and the minstrels were deservedly applauded for their brilliant musical hour of pleasure. An unexpected closing feature of the entertainment consisted of a lecture by Mr. Hill on the subject of Woman Suffrage, which was easily the most inspiring exercise of the occasion, closing with an eloquent peroration and to a slow curtain. The proceeds of the supper amounted to $18.

Mrs. Mary Gray of Bridgton visited her sister, Mrs. Belle Packard, and family last week.

Mrs. Colman Packard and Freda Hapgood of Harrison made a pedestrian visit to Waterford one day last week.

The Oxford and Cumberland Jersey Cattle Breeding Association held a well attended meeting at Grange Hall on Wednesday, Nov. 4. C. W. Farrington, president, of Fryeburg, and C. S. Hamlin, secretary, of Waterford, were present. Prof. L. C. Crockett of the State College was the principal speaker and discoursed interestingly on the subject of breeding and feeding dairy cows. Rev. G. W. Sias gave an excellent address on the objects to strive for and to be attained by the earnest farmer and breeder of dairy animals. Addresses were made also by former president, H. W. Evans, W. W. Abbott and President Farrington. The next meeting of the Association is appointed for the first Wednesday in January.

Jeannette Pearson of Portland, who is remaining at her fine summer residence on Hamlin Hill, is engaged in planting an orchard of fifty apple trees and large number of shade trees and ornamental shrubs. She is distinguished as a successful woman farmer and patron of horticultural arts.

$1550 f. o. b. Detroit

Prince of Roadsters

Prompt Deliverv

We've a car here now which will impress you as the prince of all the Roadsters. It is the 1915 HUDSON, on their latest Six-40 chassis.

It is long and racy—123-inch wheel-base. The lines are the best we've ever seen in any Roadster type. It is the easiest riding Roadster we know of.

The extra tires are carried in rear compartment. There's a locked compartment for baggage, and a trunk rack on the back.

It weighs about one-third less than old-time models of this size. It has a new-type motor which has cut down fuel cost immensely.

Being a Six, it is smooth-running and flexible. One almost never needs to change from high gear.

In perfect equipment, in beauty and luxury, no car of the day excels it.

HUDSON engineers—headed by Howard E. Coffin—have spent four years on this chassis. It represents their finished ideal of the coming type of car.

The body shows their last conception of the perfect Roadster type.

The price—$1550, f. o. b. Detroit—is by far the lowest ever quoted on a high-grade car.

All these things are new to you. They will interest you—appeal to you—as no other car has done.

Use Cottonseed Oil.

American Housewives urged to Become Better Acquainted With the Merits of the American Product.

The European war, according to specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture, affords the American housewife an excellent opportunity to become better acquainted with a very useful native product which has hitherto suffered somewhat from a popular prejudice. By using cottonseed instead of olive oil Americans can not only save themselves money, but can benefit southern cotton growers suffering from the interruption of their normal export trade. In the year ending June 30, 1913, nearly $40,000,000 worth of cottonseed products was shipped to Europe. Much of this was in the form of cottonseed meal, the stock-feeding value of which to farmers is not yet thoroughly appreciated in this country. The remainder is in the form of oils and fats used for cooking and domestic purposes. The latter class of products must now, to a great extent at least, be consumed in this country or not at all.

Hitherto there has been a widespread belief that cottonseed oil was used chiefly to counterfeit or imitate olive oil. This has unquestionably resulted in a prejudice which has done much to prevent cottonseed oil from being judged on its own merits. As a matter of fact, it is fully as nutritive as olive oil, and, on account of its bland flavor, is actually preferred by many. It lacks, of course, the distinctive olive flavor which many persons, especially the Italians, find desirable. Italians indeed, are frequently not satisfied with the flavor of the highest-grade virgin olive oil, but prefer the poorer product derived from a second pressing of the fruit.

Those who prefer their food less highly seasoned will find cottonseed oil pleasant in French dressing or salads. In mayonnaise dressing, where mustard or other condiments are used, the cottonseed oil gives the dressing a rich, creamy taste.

The great advantage of cottonseed oil, however, is, of course, its cheapness. It always has been much cheaper than the best quality of olive oil, and now that the importation of olive oil is interfered with the difference in the price of the two oils will probably be greater than ever. The lower cost of the American cottonseed oil is in itself a strong argument for its more common use. Another is found in the fact that improvements in the process of manufacture have resulted in making the modern cottonseed table products very different today from those of even a few years ago. Then the oil was objected to because it was rather strongly flavored and dark colored. Modern processes have removed these objections, and now yield clear, rich oils free from odor and mild and pleasing in flavor.

In this country edible cottonseed oil is manufactured almost entirely in large establishments which make use of sanitary machinery. In this respect the American product differs widely from the imported, which is frequently made in small quantities on individual farms, whose proprietors rarely devote much attention to hygienic considerations.

The original oil pressed from the cotton seed by powerful hydraulic presses is a dark red. To this soda compounds are added in order to remove the free fatty acids and also to take out some of the color. The remaining color is removed by the addition of fuller's earth, the result being an oil that is practically colorless. The oil is then deodorized by blowing steam through it or by means of other special processes. The final product is a liquid which, as far as its nutritive value goes, is practically the same as that of olive oil.

In addition to this fine table product, much of the oil is now compounded with beef suet or lard and in the preparation of solid white cooking fats and shortening. These cottonseed and other vegetable oils are also hardened by a new process which enables manufacturers to make from liquid oils semisolid fats, as lard substitutes, without the addition of any animal fats whatever.

OWE MY HEALTH to Peruna

I was Gradually Breaking Down From Confinement to Store.

Mr. C. N. Petersen, dealer in fine boots, shoes and cigars, No. 132 South Main St., Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes:

"I cannot tell you how much good Peruna has done me. Constant confinement in my store began to tell on my health and I felt that I was gradually breaking down.

"I tried several remedies prescribed by my physician, but obtained no permanent relief until I took Peruna. I felt better immediately, and five bottles restored me to complete health. I have been in the best of spirits since, and feel that I owe my health to it."

Catch Cold Easily.

Mr. Arthur G. Peterson, R. F. D. 21, Box 21, Omro, Wisconsin. He was in the habit of catching cold easily.

He says: "It has been seven months now since I have taken any Peruna and I haven't felt the least touch of cold since, and I am positive that I am now rid of the tendency to catch cold. Peruna is a wonderful remedy."

Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Peruna Tablets.

THE WELCOME MAN.

There's a man in the world who is never turned down, wherever he chances to stray; he gets the glad hand in the populous town, or out where the farmers make hay; he's greeted with pleasure on deserts of sand, and deep in the aisles of the woods; wherever he goes the welmoming hand—he's The One Who Delivers the Goods.

The failures of life sit around and complain, the gods haven't treated them white; they've lost their umbrellas whenever there's rain, and they haven't their lanterns at night. Men tire of failures who fill with their sighs the air of their own neighborhoods. There's a man who is greeted with love-lighted eyes—he's The Man Who Delivers the Goods.

One fellow is lazy and watches the clock, and waits for the whistle to blow; and one has a hammer with which he will knock, and one tells a story of woe; and one, if requested to travel a mile, will measure the perches and roods; but one does his stunt with a whistle or smile—he's The Man Who Delivers the Goods.

One man is afraid he will labor too hard, the world isn't yearning for such; and one man is ever alert—on his guard—lest he put in a minute too much; one has a grouch on, a temper that's bad, and one is a creature of moods; so it's hey for the joyous and rollicking lad—for The Man Who Delivers the Goods.

RULES OF THE ROAD.

The wonderful growth in poplarity of the automobile has brought it into use all over the country by men and women who previous to becoming automobile drivers, had never driven vehicles of any kind upon the public highways. The result is that there are thousands of men and women driving motor cars today who are unfamiliar with the rules of the road as they apply to the regulation traffic.

This lack of knowledge of the ordinary practices of vehicle drivers, with reference to passing other vehicles, passing pedestrians, turning corners, placing vehicles at curb when not in motion and similiar things that the auto driver must do every day, is responsible for a considerable percentage of minor automobile accidents. The most careful driver may be the cause of an accident or may suffer one himself because of this lack of knowledge.

Reckless driving is condemned by all responsible automobile drivers. It is the reckless driver that brings discredit upon the automobile because of the havoc he causes. But the careful driver who does not familiarize himself with the universal rules of the road, as well as the special rules prevailing in the community where he does most of his driving, is hardly less to blame for his neglect than is the reckless driver for his carelessness.

KEEP THE CALVES.

Indications from all sides point to the fact that for a long time to come there will be a greater demand than ever for products of the farmer's labor, and with the demand will come good prices. For this reason every available acre of land should be put under crop of some sort, and if more is produced than can readily be disposed of, it can be fed to stock.

In this connection reference may well be made to a recent bulletin issued by the Commission of Conservation, in which a strong appeal is made to farmers not to sacrifice their heifer calves for veal. There is already a very serious shortage of cattle in the country as it is, and this shortage must necessarily be aggravated as long as the only means of increasing the supply is wantonly destroyed. There is, unfortunately, a very marked tendency on the part of some of the farmers and most cow-keepers to look upon a calf as simply a means to an end. That end being a renewed supply of milk from the cow; and the coming of the calf, having fulfilled the desired end, the sooner it is got rid of the better. In the face of present conditions, this is a very short-sighted policy; it does not cost any very large amount of money to raise a steer calf to beef age, when it will be worth from five to ten times as much as a carcass of veal would bring. Heifer calves should under no circumstances be sacrificed, but should be saved for the purpose for which they are intended, to give milk and reproduce their kind.

add middle intervale thoughts . .

We have just received an interesting letter from our sister, Mrs. J. P. Coffin, after her return from her visit in Maine to Denver, Colorado. She says: "Nov. 3 is an excellent day here, the women are all voting, have been voting here for twenty years.

"I will tell you of my trip back to Denver. I took the 11 a. m. train at Exeter, N. H. It is an hour and a half ride to Boston. Crossed from north to south station, there took the 2 p. m. to Chicago without changes.

"The scenery from Boston to Albany is most beautiful—looks very much like what we have in Maine—but in October the afternoons are short and all too soon darkness came and shut it out.

"We reached Albany at 8.30 p. m. The porter made up the births and we went to bed, at least I did, am fortunate in that I can sleep when tired no matter how unfavorable the conditions, and I slept the night through, even the noise of the rushing of the train sounded like music I was so tired.

"At 4 a. m. I heard someone say we were in Buffalo,—soon we were rushing on toward Chicago and as it was light enough I was soon dressed for I was determined not to lose any of the beauties of the landscape. My pass took me over the Lake Shore & Southern Michigan, so got a partial view of the Great Lakes. It is a twelve hours' ride from Buffalo to Chicago.

"We reached the latter place at 5 p. m., and there we had four hours' wait. It is two nights from Chicago to Denver. My train, a pullman, left Chicago at 9 p. m. Next morning we were in Iowa. The scenery all through Kansas and Nebraska seemed most lovely. We made a few minutes stop in Omaha and Lincoln, and got quite a look at those cities. Think we crossed the Missouri river just before going into Nebraska, then after what seemed endless riding, darkness came again and the last night in the berth.

"Next morning we were all astir early for we were in Colorado and the train was due in Denver at 7.30 a. m. For what seemed a long time I watched the open prarie. Then after a time the Rocky Mountains came in view and I knew that we were nearing Denver. Soon the train came to a stop and I saw the 'arch' and Frank, my son, hurrying along."

The Town of Harrison.

The town of Harrison was so named from Hon. Harrison Gray Otis, and was formed from the towns of Bridgton and Otisfield, and was incorporated by act of the Legislature of Massachusetts, March 2, 1805. The part taken from the town of Otisfield was surveyed by George Pierce, Esq., and lay between the town line road, extending northwest and southeast, and Crooked river. The part lying between the old line of division and Long pond, containing about 8,500 acres, formerly constituted the "second division of Bridgton." This was surveyed by Benj. Kimball, Jr., in 1793, who laid out 90 lots of about 90 acres each.

The original bounds of Harrison, as given in the act of incorporation, comprised that territory south of a line east, 15 degrees north, passing through Island pond, and included between Crooked river and Long pond. To form the town of Naples eleven tiers of lots were taken from the southern end, lying between Crooked river and Long pond.

The first town election was held at the home of Naphtali Harmon, near the place where the first town house was built in 1806 or 1807. At this time there were 49 male residents in town, 41 of whom cast ballots at the fall elections. A second town house was erected near the first, in 1825. The third was built in the village, in 1871, at an expense of $2,200.

ASTHMA AND HAY FEVER A GUARANTEED TREATMENT

"I have arranged with Chas. H. Howard Co. so that every sufferer from Asthma, Hay Fever, Bronchial Asthma, South Paris, Me., can try my treatment entirely at my own risk," Dr. Rudolph Schiffmann announces. He says: "Buy a 50-cent package of my Asthmador or Asthmador Cigarettes, try it, and if it does not afford you immediate relief, or if you do not find it the best remedy you have ever used, take it back to Chas. H. Howard Co., and they will return your money, cheerfully and without any question whatever. After seeing the grateful relief it has afforded in hundreds of cases, which had been considered incurable, and which had been given up in despair, I know what it will do. I am so sure that it will do the same with others that I am not afraid to guarantee it will relieve instantaneously. The druggists handling Asthmador will return your money if you say so. You are to be the sole judge and under this positive guarantee, absolutely no risk is run in buying Asthmador."

Persons living elsewhere will be supplied under the same guarantee by their local druggist or direct by Dr. R. Schiffmann, St. Paul, Minn. Adv. 38-45

Suffered Twenty-One Years-- Finally Found Relief

Having suffered for twenty-one years with a pain in my side, I finally have found relief in Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root. Injections of morphine were my only relief for short periods of time. I became so sick that I had to undergo a surgical operation in New Orleans, which benefitted me for two years. When the same pain came back one day I was so sick that I gave up hopes of living. A friend advised me to try your Swamp-Root and I at once commenced using it. The first bottle did me so much good that I purchased two more bottles. I am now on my second bottle and am feeling like a new woman. I passed a gravel stone as large as a big red bean and several small ones. I have not had the least feeling of pain since taking your Swamp-Root and I feel it my duty to recommend this great medicine to all suffering humanity. Gratefully yours,

MRS. JOSEPH CONSTANCE,

Recollections of Early Settlers of Greenwood

By PROF. A. E. VERRILL of Yale University.

My First School; Doings of Big Boys.

About a quarter of a mile farther south, is a cross-road, running eastward, on which, near the corner was situated the old schoolhouse when I was a small boy. The house now on the corner was formerly occupied by R. Hayes. At or near the end of this cross-road was a farm house occupied formerly, 1856, by Willard Herrick, and later, about 1876, by Ralph Herrick. Near this was the abrupt valley called "The Gully".

When I attended school, one winter, in this old school, there were a number of "big boys," as they were called. Some of them were eighteen to twenty years old. They were full grown, husky fellows, full of fun and mischief. This was the case in most of the rural schools of this region, in winter, for there was not very much work for such boys to do at home, on the farms, at that season, and although many went away to work elsewhere, some were always left at home. They were often hard to control in some schools. The big boys in our school, among other things, used to roll up immense balls of damp snow and make two large opposed "forts" out of them. These were often higher than their heads and perhaps 15 to 20 feet long. At night they would throw water over them, so that it would freeze and make the whole very solid. They divided into two "armies" equal in numbers, by lot. Each side accumulated hundreds of hard snowballs, made harder by dipping in water and freezing. Then some day, when all were ready, usually at the noon recess, for each one carried his lunch, a grand battle would begin, with charges and counter-charges, assault upon assault, with hard snow-balls flying thickly, and wild shouting and cheering, and many bruised faces and black eyes. Each side tried to demolish the fort of the other, sometimes using rails and stakes borrowed from the nearest fences. Once, I remember, one of the big boys was either badly hurt or pretended to be, as the boys thought, and fell down, refusing to get up, The boys thought him mad or sulky and decided to bury him in the snow, which they quickly did, in the snow, which they quickly did, digging a regular grave in the deep snow and covering him up with light snow. Just then the bell rang and all went in at once and left him in his grave. He was soon missed and asked for by the teacher. When he was told what had been done he rushed out with all the boys and they opened up the grave without ceremony. The boy was carried into the schoolroom insensible and nearly suffocated. It took about an hour of hard rubbing and shaking to revive him. Then he had to be taken home.

Of course this was mere thoughtless "horseplay" by irresponsible boys, who had no idea of the danger of suffocating the fellow, but it illustrates the sort of pranks those boys were often up to. I don't remember who was the teacher that winter. Perhaps it was Winthrop Stevens or Lawson Coburn, for both taught there.

During the school there, one summer, the lightning struck and destroyed a large white birch in the old cemetery, nearby. We all thought it had struck the schoolhouse, and were naturally much frightened.

I think this schoolhouse was the one burned a few years later, by one of the scholars, it was said, and the new one was built elsewhere. The one now on the main road, not far away, was moved there recently, from below the Patch farm.

The coasting was often good on the long, steep Greenwood hills. All the boys' sleds were stout, home-made, wooden-framed sleds, modeled after full grown ox-sleds in most cases, and serviceable for work as well as for play, for the smaller children were often hauled to school by their big brothers on these sleds. The runners were usually made of sapling swamp-ash, split in half and curved up broadly in front. I have made many myself. But the big boys, and big girls also, were not always satisfied even with those sleds that would often hold four to six of them. So, on moonlight nights, when sledding was good, they would borrow a full-size ox-sled from some farm and drag it to the top of one of the long hills. It would be filled by the crowd, three of four of the largest and strongest boys being chosen to steer it, if they could. Usually they couldn't. It would run down those long hills with great speed, and often getting unmanageable, it would run off to one side, and dump the whole crowd into the deep snow by the roadside, usually hurting no one, on account of the deep snow-drifts. "Double-runners" were not known there at that time. I doubt if any of the older boys and girls then in that school, are now living. If so, they would be over eighty-four years old.

toe. Quit punishing your feet by using toe-eating salves and ointments. To use knives, files, scissors and razors, slicing and hacking at a corn, only make it grow faster and bigger. It also brings danger of bleeding and blood poison. The new way, the new principle never known before in corn-history, is "GETS-IT." It's a liquid—2 drops on a corn does the work. Pain goes, the corn begins to shrivel and out it comes! You apply it in two seconds. Nothing to stick, nothing to hurt, and it never fails. Try "GETS-IT" tonight on corns, calluses, warts or bunions.

"GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Sheriff W. O. Frothingham went to Boston, Tuesday on the Preece murder case. He found Preece was known in Boston and a year or so ago was employed as night watchman and head bell boy at the Crawford House, and that he often did little detective stunts on his own account. At one time he acted as a special officer at the door of a Boston moving picture house. A sister, Mrs. Clara Brinicomb, of Taunton telephoned that if the body was forwarded to her she would see that it was given proper burial. Mrs. Annie Frye of Paris Hill, whom Preece was returning to marry on Thanksgiving day, obtained a divorce nearly four years ago. Her former husband, James E. Frye, lives at Beebe Junction, Que., where he is engaged in the plumbing business. Their two children are with the mother.

Mrs. Olive Locke will return after a few weeks with relatives.

Mrs. F. A. Taylor entertained the Philatheas Tuesday afternoon. The officers chosen were:—President, Mrs. F. A. Taylor; vice president, Mrs. Lester West; treasurer, Mrs. George Tirrell; secretary, Mrs. Luther Hollis.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Briggs, who have been living with Mrs. Briggs' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Mills in Norway, have moved to South Paris.

At the Ladies' Mission Circle of the Baptist church, which met with Mrs. Sarah Edwards, Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Charles E. Tolman was elected president to fill the vacancy caused by Mrs. Nettie Morse who resigned on account of ill health. After the business meeting, interesting papers were read on Africa, the topic of the meeting. Refreshments of cocoa and fancy crackers were served by the hostess.

A merry little band of women boarded the train at New Gloucester, Thursday morning. It was the Happy Thought Circle, on their way to South Paris, where they were entertained by Mrs. C. H. Churchill. Soon after their arrival a business meting was called, and views of South Paris were sent to absent members. At noon a dainty lunch of sandwiches, fancy cakes, pies, ice cream, fruit, tea and cocoa was served. The afternoon was passed in social enjoyment and at 4.30 they boarded the train, homeward bound, declaring it the best time ever.

At the meeting of the Seneca club held at the home of Mrs. Stanley, Mrs. Agnes Morton's latest song, When Night Comes On, was sung by Mrs. Luella Smiley by request. Mrs. Morton's first composition, We're Growing Old Together, You and I, was sung by request by Mrs. H. E. Wilson at the entertainment at the Universalist church Tuesday evening. A response, He Noticeth a Sparrow's Fall, dedicated to Rev. C. G. Miller, the words and music of which were composed by Mrs. Morton, was sung by the choir at the Universalist church last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Parlin are visiting at Frank Ryerson's in Welchville. They will also go to Auburn before returning home, to visit at Thomas Slattery's.

Number Twelve
Recollections of Early Settlers of Greenwood

By PROF. A. E. VERRILL of Yale University.

Thos. W. Furlong; Pioneer; His Farm.

Thomas W. Furlong was said to have been one of the first two settlers of Greenwood, in 1802, the other being Rev. Wm. Yates. He was born in 1774, and died in Greenwood, November, 1861, aged 87½ years. He came first to Norway, where he occupied 100 acres of land, "exempt from taxation," in 1796. He located his farm in Greenwood soon afterwards, and probably moved his family there in 1802, or earlier. Some say that his first log-house was on the farm east of the present road, under the abrupt brow of Furlong Mountain, on the farm where Joseph Flagg Lovering afterwards lived, near the termination of the old county road in Norway.

Thomas W. Furlong, or "Uncle Tom," as he was commonly called, was a very strong and energetic man, and a hard worker. He is said to have been able to cut the forest trees on an acre of woodland in one day, by making a "drive" of them. Elizabeth Furlong was named on the tombstone as the wife of Thomas. She died in June, 1861, aged 100 years and five months, according to the tombstone, in the old cemetery nearby. One is disposed to doubt the date of her birth, 1761, because if so, it seems that some of her children would have been born after she was 50 to 55 years old. Possibly an error of dating occurred. But some other cases of children born to mothers of 52 to 60 years, or more, are said to have occurred in Greenwood. Some of the mothers were more or less like the patriarchs of ancient times, in this respect, according to the records.

A notable instance of this kind is said to have occurred in one of the Crocker families, when the oldest son was thirty years old, at the time of the birth of the youngest child, when the mother was over sixty years old.

Thomas W. Furlong subsequently lived on the farm later owned by his son, I. P. Furlong, south of Patch Mountain. Later he lived near Greenwood City, on the farm afterwards occupied by Simon Furlong, his son. Still later, about 1848 to 1861, he lived at the northern base of Patch Mountain, in the valley, north of the Sanborn Brook, on the farm occupied about 1855 to 1860, by George W. Furlong, mentioned later. He died there, while still at work, in 1861.

The children of Thomas W. Furlong, known to me were Simon; Mary, called Polly, who married a Decker; Hannah, married Griffin Trull of Greenwood; Benjamin, Uriah and Matt lived in Portland; Isaac P., already mentioned, born about 1801. They are not named here according to their ages.

He bought his first farm from the trustees of Phillips Academy, whose land grant was selected and surveyed in 1800. He was among the earliest purchasers, and gave his promissory notes in payment.

He may have selected and occupied his land earlier, "squatting" upon it while it was public land, as he and many others had done in Norway. He probably located where he did on account of the lay-out of the first county road, which originally terminated just south of his farm, on the Greenwood line.

First County Road in Norway.

This early county road, laid out in 1796, and ordered by the County Court, was made to start on the Greenwood line south of and near the site of this old Furlong house, and it then ran "south 20 degrees east, three and one quarter miles and fifty rods, on the line between lots," down the central part of Norway, over the Cox Hill, in a straight line, for those original lots were rectangular, in regular rows. Most of this straight part of the road still remains, with minor changes, but the part near the Greenwood line now bends to the west, through the lower gap in the mountain, past the I. P. Furlong farm. On an old map, made in 1813—1818, it is represented as it was first laid out, straight to the Greenwood line, between the original lots. The lay-out is given in Lapham's History of Norway, page 634.

The lots between which it ran in Norway were those then partly occupied by the earliest settlers of Norway, among them:—Zebedee Perry, Jonathan Cummings, Nathan Foster, Benj. Fuller, Silas Merriam, etc. The point from which this county road was to start on the Greenwood line was not stated in the lay-out, nor has the exact location of all this road been given in the History of Norway, nor on any modern map, so far as I know. However, the road just mentioned does run mostly in nearly the direction designated, for the required distance, as a remarkably straight road for a hilly region, even to this day. It also passed between the lots close to the original homes of the old settlers mentioned in the "lay-out" so that there can be no doubt that this was the original county road of 1796.

If this straight road, now slightly altered in some places, be prolonged, as on the map of 1813, northward beyond the Greenwood line, it will strike the Furlong or Patch Mountain, somewhat east of the present road, and at a place where the hill is much steeper and higher. Traces of this part of the old road, abandoned many years ago, even long before my boyhood, are still visible, and near it the foundations of an ancient house, said to have been the first one built by Thomas W. Furlong, who had probably located his house and farm there, as early as 1799 or 1800, in consequence of the lay-out of the road and the Phillips Academy grant, from which he bought the farm. There seems to have been no reason whatever for beginning the county road there, except to have it "pass between the lots" in Norway, for a much better location was made later, by curving the road a little westward, through the lower mountain gap, past the I. P. Furlong farm. This county road, though laid out in 1796, was probably several years in the process of construction, for laborers and oxen were few at that time. No doubt the part near the North Norway farms was constructed last.

The Earliest Settlers in Greenwood.

It is difficult, if not impossible, to state the exact date of the first settlements in Greenwood. Lapham states that it was first settled in 1802, by Wm. Yates, on Patch Mountain. This is very doubtful, partly because what is meant by "a settler" is uncertain. It seems that many intended settlers were in the habit of taking up their farms, partly clearing them, building a "house," often a temporary log-cabin or camp, and planting crops, while actually residing, in winter, in a more settled town, like Norway, farther south. If married, the wife and family may not have gone permanently to the new farm for two or three years, or even more.

Usually there is no record of these matters, and even the early records of deeds were lost by fire. The original map of the Phillips Academy grant is also lost. Uriah Holt remained agent of the trustees until 1848.

My grandfather Verrill, according to family traditions, did this very thing, while a young man, probably accompanied by his father. He partly cleared and planted his Greenwood farm and built his house there, while his family remained in Minot, at first. Perhaps his young wife also went north with him, in summer, but returned in winter to better quarters in Minot. This we cannot record with certainty, but it is said that his house was built and some of his land planted before 1801,—say about 1798 or 1799,—and the eldest of his children is said to have been born in Greenwood, in 1801, when he was but twenty years old, but there is no positive record of this.

It is quite probable that he lived at first in the old block-house, not far away, while he was building his farmhouse, which was a framed and boarded house, and therefore probably not built until after the Sanborn sawmill was in operation, after about 1806, for the lumber could hardly have been obtained elsewhere.

Thomas W. Furlong probably pursued the same course, for he lived and was taxed in Norway, in 1796. Greenwood, at that time, was "state-lands," before part of it was granted to Phillips Academy, in 1798. The farms were rapidly taken up, after the grant, as already told, on very easy terms, so that men with small means, stout hearts, and strong arms, went there; especially young men, newly married and with little or no money or property, but with unlimited courage and faith in their own ability to "make good," in which their young and vigorous wives equally shared.

These hardy Greenwood pioneers were practically all of English stock, from eastern Massachusetts. Many of them, like those of other towns of this region, came from Cape Ann (hence the name New Gloucester), Salem, and Beverly, Mass., and other towns of that region. Yet others had been soldiers in the Revolutionary War, and were left destitute, or nearly so, at its close, and had to seek this region of cheap farms to get a living.

Ancient Block House; Indian Raid.

That Patch Mountain was occupied very early is evident from the fact that there was an old "block-house," built of logs, with the second story overhanging, situated on the farm afterward occupied by my father. Such buildings were constructed as a protection against the raids of hostile Indians, which often occurred in New England before and during the Revolutionary War. The projection afforded the means of pouring scalding hot water upon the heads of Indians or other enemies who tried to break through the doors or windows below, or who endeavored to set the building on fire. Probably this one was built there during or before the Revolutionary War. Indians actually made an attack on Bethel, the next town north, in 1781.

Pruning Trees.

Matter of Importance and Interest To Orchardists.

A cavity in a decayed tree is something like a cavity in a decayed tooth. If an unreliable tree surgeon who has been called in to save the tree only partly removes the diseased parts of the wood, uses no antiseptic coatings in the cavity and fills it up with cement the tree is no more cured than is a person whose decayed tooth has not been properly filled by a dentist. The only difference is that after the tree cavity has been covered, if the work has not been properly done, the trees has no way of making its trouble known except by furthur decay.

Within the last decade there has been a great increase in demand for surgeons to repair decaying shade trees, but the possibilities of practicing fraud in the profession like the instance just cited have tempted so many unreliable people to dabble in the science that tree surgery has fallen somewhat into disrepute. The United States Department of Agriculture realize that commercial tree surgery should occupy a high place in the estimation of the public, and has recently issued a pamphlet entitled "Practical Tree Surgery," wherin suggestions are made for improvement along these lines.

As in all professions, there are reliable and unreliable men and firms competing for contracts in tree surgery. In recent years so many occasions have arisen when property owners felt the necessity of calling in commercial tree surgeons to attend to their trees that there are now numerous firms, both honest and dishonest, engaged in the work. Usually tree surgery is practiced in connection with some nearby line, but often it is taken up as a business of itself. When a blight such as the chestnut bark disease, infects the trees of a district, the community, or individuals in it, will often spend considerable money to control ravages which rob the whole district of its trees.

An affection like the chestnut bark disease is contagious. It requires scientific knowledge of the disease to know whether a diseased tree should be destroyed at once or is worth treating. It requires scientific training to understand the manner of growth of the fungi causing the disease and what treatment is best.

Many individuals who have had faith in tree surgery have lost it through following the advice of unreliable tree surgeons who claimed to be able to diagnose a case, but whose main interest was to colect a good sum of money for their work.

Besides the careless filling of decayed cavities in trees, there are other practices of certain so-called "tree surgeons" that do the trees more harm than good. Many of these "surgeons," as well as the people who employ them, do not realize the danger arising from injuries to a tree. The tree owner should realize that prompt attendance to fresh injuries will largely do away with the need of tree surgery 15 or 20 years hence. The tree surgeons must realize that if they make fresh injuries in the living bark, when treating decayed portions, they are laying the tree open to more dangers of infection that will result in further decay.

Just as a person is subject to infection through cuts and scratches, trees are rendered subject to infection by having living bark torn. Notwithstanding this many tree surgeons use pruning hooks and spurs and cut fresh gashes in the tree. To break off small dead branches a workman may use a long pruning hook as though it were a club. In doing so the hook usually causes injury to the young bark near by. Every new wound may furnish a new point of entrance for decay, even though the old dead branch may have been removed.

The use of the climbing spurs should be particularly avoided on trees in vicinities where there is contagion. They simply render the treated tree all the more liable to catch the disease which is "in the air."

All properly equipped firms of commercial surgeons should have ladders that would reach 40 feet into a tree. Ladders, ropes, and rubber-soled shoes will allow a man to reach practically every part. Reliable estimates indicate that it takes somewhat longer (perhaps 25 per cent. on an average) to do the work on a tree when these are used instead of climbing spurs, and this is one reason why may firms who value renumeration more than reputation use the spurs.

The United States Department of Agriculture is suggesting a plan that may help put commercial tree surgery on a better basis. Owners are urged to have a definite written contract with the tree surgeons they employ, and the following is suggested as a model for such contract.

(3) Ordinary commercial orange shellac shall be applied to cover the cut edges of sapwood and cambium (which is the soft formative tissue from which the new wood and bark originate) within five minutes after the final trimming cut is made.

(4) All cut or shellaced surfaces shall be painted with commercial creosote, followed by thick coal tar.

(5) All diseased, rotten, discolored, water-soaked, or insect-eaten wood shall be removed in cavity work and the cavity inspected by the owner or his agent before it is filled.

(6) Only a good grade of Portland cement and clean, sharp sand in no weaker mixture than one to three shall be used to fill cavities.

(7) The contractor shall repair free of expense any defects that may appear in the work within one year.

If the owner prefers to have a cavity filled with asphalt or other material instead of cement, the contract can be altered accordingly. If it is desirable to substitute some other preparation for shellac, this can be done. Similarly, under conditions, various other modifications in Nos. 1, 2, 5 and 7 should be made with caution. It may so happen that if all insect-eaten wood is removed, the tree may be dangerously weakened; under such conditions the diseased matter can be removed to solid wood and the cavity fumigated. Other suggestions along these lines may be found in the pamphlet issued by the department.

The Maine Pomological Society will meet in City Hall, Bangor, Nov. 17-19. Director of Orchard Demonstration work will judge the fruit.

A. Q. Mitchell of East Waterford has been nominated Justice of the Peace.

EVERYBODY NEEDS PURE, RICH BLOOD

Pure blood enables the stomach, liver and other digestive organs to do their work properly. Without it they are sluggish, there is loss of appetite, sometimes faintness, a deranged state of the intestines, and, in general, all the symptoms of dyspepsia.

Pure blood is required by every organ of the body for the proper performance of its functions.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure blood, and this is why it is so successful in the treatment of so many diseases and ailments. Its acts directly on the blood, ridding it of scrofulous and other humors. COME SING TO ME.

Come sing me a song of the sunshine of life,
Of victory, progress and hope.
I am so tired of failures and heartache and strife,
I am tired of the dark where we grope.
Come sing me a song of achievement and gain,
A pean of conquest.—I'm sad
And weary of hearing of sorrow and pain,
I want to look up and be glad.
I want to forget all the lessons I've learned,
And revel in gladness and grace.
If the hands on Time's clock could only be turned Back to the old starting place
Where Hope ran before and threw dust in our eyes,
Encouraged us on with a smile,—
Back to the time we were happy,—not wise,—
I'd stop the clock there for awhile.
Come sing me a song now of infinite peace,
Peace, limitless, boundless and deep;
A song of contentment and rest and release,
Sing me,—ah,—sing me to sleep.

French—Merrill.

A very pretty home wedding occured at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester G. French, Friday afternoon at 4.30 p. m., when their daughter, Pearl Cecil, was married to Harold Francis Merrill.

The room was prettily and tastefully decorated by Mr. and Mrs. William Kingman of Waterford with autumn leaves, evergreen and wild holly. The bride and bridegroom stood beneath an arch of evergreen and white pinks from which a bell composed of white carnation pinks and evergreen, hung. The bride wore a white crepe dress made up with shadow lace and white silk girdle. She wore white carnation pinks on her dress and on her hair. The bridegroon customary black.

This is in Waterford, P. O. address, R. F. D., Harrison and two ladies own and operate a farm as well as an automobile. They do it themselves and are prospering and enjoying life. They usually migrate to the city after Thanksgiving.

They raised two acres of sweet corn at a profit this season. It went to the Baxter shop at Waterford. They have prepared the land and set out 36 McIntosh apple trees. They dynamited the holes using a half a stick of 20% explosive buried from 20 to 24 inches in the ground for each hole. An earth augur for making the holes was used and the caps, fuse and tamping was done by them and the trees were properly set out but when it come to pruning the tops they called for assistance as they didn't just know how to do it.

Director of Orchard Demonstration Work, Geo. A. Yeaton, showed them how. They had pruned the roots according to the improved plan but they quailed at cutting off the tops. This has now been done.

Middle Intervale Thoughts.

In the Robert B. Thomas Almanac of 1875 is this verse under the picture of Old Father Time:

"As Thou hast made Thy world without,
Make Thou more fair my world within;
Shine through its lingering clouds of doubt;
Rebuke its haunting shapes of sin;
Fill, brief or long, my granted span
Of life with love to Thee and man.
Strike when Thou wilt the hour of rest,
But let my last days be my best."
—Whittier.

The departed:

"No step is on the concious floor!
Yet love will dream, and faith will trust,
Since He Who knows our need is just,
That somehow, somewhere, meet we must."

Always have a book within your reach which you may catch up at odd minutes. Resolve to edge in a little reading every day, if it be but a single sentence. Give fifteen minutes every day; it will be felt at the end of the year.

If your neighbors hens are troublesome
And steal across the way,
Don't let your angry passions rise,
But fix a place for them to lay.

A politician, in writing a letter of condolence to the widow of a deceased member of the legislature says, "I can not tell you how pained I was to hear that your husband had gone to heaven. We were bosom friends; but we shall never meet again."

A school boy, being requested to write a composition upon the subject of "Pins", produced the following:—"Pins are very useful. They have saved the lives of many men, women and children, in fact, whole families. "How so?" asked the puzzled teacher; and the boy replied, "Why, by not swallowing them." This matches the story of the other boy, who defined salt as "stuff that makes potatoes taste bad when you don't put any on."

Now about our war:—

"Lord: let War's tempest cease,
Fold the whole earth in peace
Under Thy wings!
Make all Thy nations one,
All hearts beneath the sun,
Till Thou shalt reign alone.
Great King of Kings."
—O. W. Holmes

Law Might be Improved.

The preservation of shade trees along Maine's highways is not specifically provided for in the good roads law as perhaps it ought to have been, but it is undoubtedly within the discretion of the State Highway Commissioner to make such rules relating to the subject which they may deem proper.

Recently the Honorable Harold M. Sewall of Bath presented to the Commission a Memorial, of which he was the author, signed by himself and a large number of leading and influential men and women of Maine, praying that they "give this whole subject careful and effective attention."

It is one of the most able and eloquent documents ever written upon any Maine subject and must inevitably produce good results.—[Sprague's Journal of Maine History.

Basket Ball.

The basket ball season of 1913-14 will long be remembered by the "fans" of Norway. It brought the State Championship for "Prep" schools at Norway, but Manager Klain has promised to repeat this season, which opens November 20th, and runs through to March 19, 1915, showing to the basket ball followers the best team in the State. Norway High will be represented by some old and some new men. Sanderson, the Bridgton Academy star of last year, and Smith, another Bridgton Academy phenom, have joined the Norway High School aggregation, which is being coached by Farnum, a graduate of Gould's Academy in the class of 1912. Klain, the same old Jakie as of old will be in the game, this being his last year at school. Captain Haskell, Bethell, Shepard and Andrews need no introduction as their playing ability is well known.

Among the fast teams coming here are the Abbot school of Farmington, Portland H. S., Westbrook Seminary, South Portland H. S., and a glance at the schedule below will convince one that Norway will see one of the biggest seasons ever known:

The Rex theatre is a popular place for entertainment. A pleasant greeting was given Mr. Perkins on his "first night." The more regular "movie crowd" gathered at the corner of Main and Cottage streets and at the second performance headed by music marched into the theatre and filled it to overflowing. To say that the new proprietor (who is no stranger here) was surprised and pleased expresses just what he was.

Corn day.—A day devoted to the consideration of the corn industry of Oxford County, will be observed at Norway Grange Hall, Saturday, Nov. 21st, 10 a. m. and 1.30 p. m. Those of Middle Age Especially.

When you have found no remedy for the horrors that oppress you during change of life, when through the long hours of the day it seems as though your back would break, when your head aches constantly, you are nervous, depressed and suffer from those dreadful bearing down pains, don't forget that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the safest and surest remedy, and has carried hundreds of women safely through this critical period.

Read what these three women say:

From Mrs. Hornung, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—"I am writing to let you know how much your medicine has done for me. I failed terribly during the last winter and summer and every one remarked about my appearance. I suffered from a female trouble and always had pains in my back, no appetite and at times was very weak.

"I was visiting at a friend's house one day and she thought I needed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and have gained eight pounds, have a good appetite and am feeling better every day. Everybody is asking me what I am doing and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You may publish this letter if you wish and I hope others who have the same complaint will see it and get health from your medicine as I did."—Mrs. A. HORNUNG, 91 Stanton St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Was A Blessing To This Woman.

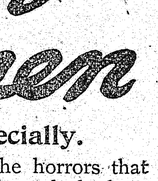

So. RICHMOND, VA.—"I was troubled with a bearing down pain and a female weakness and could not stand long on my feet. Of all the medicines I took nothing helped me like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now regular and am getting along fine. I cannot praise the Compound too much. It has been a blessing to me and I hope it will be to other women."—Mrs. D. TYLER, 23 West Clopton St., South Richmond, Va.

Pains in Side, Could Hardly Stand.

LODI, WIS.—"I was in a bad condition, suffering from a female trouble, and I had such pains in my sides I could hardly move. Before I had taken the whole of one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt better, and now I am well and can do a good day's work. I tell everybody what your medicine has done for me."—Mrs. JOHN THOMPSON, Lodi, Wisconsin.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

WEST SUMNER.

Murdered and Robbed.

The body of a man supposed to be Thomas E. Prees of Easton, Aroostook county, was found lying beside the road about a mile west of West Sumner, near the farm of John Lane, Sunday morning.

Discovery of the body was made about eight o'clock Sunday morning, by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cushman who were driving to Sumner. It lay about ten feet from the wheel track in the road, and as the snow and leaves nearby were not disturbed, it is believed that the man was shot and carried to the spot where the body was.

The body was still warm when found. The bullet which caused death penetrated to the heart. Its force was spent and it was found beneath the vest. It corresponds with bullets found in the dead man's pockets, and later in the wagon in which he was riding. The weapon used was held so close that the cloth was burned.

Deputy Sheriff C. S. Childs of Buckfield was notified of the finding of the body about half a mile below the John Lane place, so called, now owned by Clinton and Grover Keene.

He notified Sheriff Frothingham, and the latter went to the scene immediately, as did Coroner Harry Eliot, County Attorney-elect Albert Beliveau and Deputy Sheriff Arthur Besse, all of Rumford.

They were not at loss for a motive, as there was no money in the man's clothing and one pocket was turned wrong side out. His watch, which had stopped at 10.20 o'clock, was not molested.

The dead man's description is as follows: Height, 5 feet, 8 inches; weight, 150 pounds; age, 45; blue eyes, smooth face, light hair. Wore dark mixed suit, gray overcoat, cloth cap and high black shoes.

Papers in his pocket led the authorities to believe that it was Prees. One of them was a letter to a man by that name from a Mrs. Abbie Foster of Paris Hill stating that she was glad he was coming to board at her home again, and another a contract with a Presque Isle farmer indicating that Prees had worked for him when the potato crop was harvested.

The county officials, convinced that the man was murdered began a search for two men, one of whom was believed to have been the victim, who called twice at a house within half a mile of the place where the body was found and asked to be directed to Paris Hill.

An unknown man called at the Hotel Andrews, South Paris, early in the morning and put up his team. It is believed that he took the train for Portland which passes through that place at 5.45 o'clock a. m.

Coroner Eliot impaneled a jury which includes O. G. Chandler, J. D. Gerrish, Horace Farrar, Charles Starbird, Charles O. Barrows and Guy Heath, all of Sumner. The jury organized with Mr. Chandler as foreman, and viewed the body. They adjourned to November 14, when the inquest will be held.

The body was carried to South Paris and an autopsy performed in the evening at the Thayer undertaking parlors by H. L. Bartlett, medical examiner for Oxford County, the result of which will be made public at the inquest next Saturday.

Prees was very well known in Paris Hill village and had spent some time there, coming there the first of June, and remaining until the first of August. He boarded at the home of Mrs. Abbie Rawson, and was engaged to marry Mrs. Rawson's daughter, Mrs. Anna Frye. The wedding was to have taken place within a few days and it was for this happy event, thas Prees was returning to Paris Hill at this time.

They were expecting him Saturday night, and when it became 12 o'clock and he had not come, they left a lighted lantern for him in the barn. The horse was the Rawson's horse Prees was driving and was the one the assailant left at South Paris. Prees had been to Presque Isle with Louis Rawson to work. Rawson is supposed to be in Presque Isle.

Prees was about 35 years old. His father, Charles Prees, lives in Boston. The family came from England where Prees was born. He has seven brothers and sisters, some of them still living in England and the others in Boston. One of Prees' sisters married Judge Hall of Boston. The family came to this country when Prees was nine years old.

Prees had told the Rawsons he was a detective.

Value of Hyomei

It's the Safe Catarrh Remedy. Nothing Better for Head Colds or Bronchitis.

Do not endanger your health by taking strong drugs into the stomach in the hope of curing catarrh, coughs, asthma and head colds. At the best they usually do little more than upset the digestive organs.

Use Hyomei, which is nature's own remedy for all such diseases. It is a combination of healing oils, gums and balsams, which, when breathed through the Hyomei inhaler, saturates the air you breathe with its curative and health-giving medication—it clears stuffed up head like magic. Hyomei quickly goes to all the sore and inflamed tissues lining the nose, throat and bronchial tubes. Its antiseptic healing begins at once—dull headaches, distressing choking, constant snuffling, and unclean discharges of the nose surely cease.

Hyomei is not only the most pleasant, but the most natural treatment, and very inexpensive. All druggists have it. Be sure to get the complete outfit that contains inhaler and bottle of liquid. Noyes Drug Store will sell you Hyomei on the "No-cure-no-pay" plan. Surely try it today—you have nothing to lose on this generous offer. 44&46

Here's Proof

Charles Johnson, P. O. Box 105, Lawton's Station, N. Y., writes: "I sprained my ankle and dislocated my left hip by falling out of a third story window six months ago. I went on crutches for four months, then I started to use some of your Liniment, according to your directions, and I must say that it is helping me wonderfully. I threw my crutches away. Only used two bottles of your Liniment and now I am walking quite well with one cane. I never will be without Sloan's Liniment."

In addition to an account of the murdered man, Thomas E. Preece, in this paper, it appears that the body had apparently been carried from the highway nearby, as the leaves and newly fallen snow bore no evidence of a struggle. Powder marks on the clothing showed that the weapon had been held close. His pockets contained shells similar to those which killed him. Shells of the same pattern were also in a carriage left at a South Paris hotel late Saturday evening by a man who registered as William Dunn of Jay, Me. The man who stopped at South Paris may be the divorced husband of the girl wife, Annie Frye, married at 14 and deserted at 16 with two children, whom Preece was returning to Paris to marry. Letters show that he wished his wife and family to return to him. The description of the man at South Paris tallies with that of Frye.
